Overview

About Monica Pechous

Monica Pechous focuses her practice on municipal law, zoning, land use, and economic development. She counsels local governments on an array of topics including governance, regulatory matters, and statutory compliance related to the Illinois Freedom of Information Act and Illinois Open Meetings Act.

Her experience includes preparing and negotiating contracts such as intergovernmental and professional service agreements, purchase and sale agreements, and license agreements, as well as drafting legislation, policy, zoning, and other development approvals. She also regularly attends board and commission meetings for local government clients. Monica has authored and published many articles on local government matters including the impact of technological advancements on home rule power, the constitutionality of municipal fines and property seizures, and cybersecurity and data privacy considerations for municipalities.

Prior to joining Elrod Friedman, Monica worked as a corporate associate at Kirkland & Ellis LLP. During law school, she received the Samuel W. Witwer Award for Excellence in the Study of the Illinois Constitution. Monica values public service and has successfully advocated for individuals in need of legal assistance through Ascend Justice, the National Immigrant Justice Center, and various other community-focused groups.
